ABOUT THE THEME

No education shall be complete if it doesn't involve the child's creativity in thinking and doing. We cannot provide any set of solution for children's problem in the future with our insufficient knowledge and understanding of present and past. There is a growing chasm in the world today between the technological advancement and eroding professional ethics. In fact without enhancing professional capacities either at the individual or institutional levels, the teaching profession would become obsolete especially in the case of developing countries.

The essence of modern teaching is openness, flexibility and respect for the uniqueness of every human being. Growth and true development will only happen when this gap is closed. Without teacher professional development programs the teaching and learning process would not yield any good results. There is a continuous demand for teachers to learn, to cope up with upcoming challenges.

But now the question arises Can we remain static and stagnant and still survive in this ever changing world with flood of information? We must develop appropriate attitudes to change. We have to be dynamic, flexible and keep learning & growing. We have to teach children to learn and how to keep on learning throughout life. Those who refused, they will be left behind.

As a leaking vessel never can fill, Waters of Life so pure and still,

So distracted mind fails to retain, Wisdom's nectar in its brain.

But we seldom meet each other to talk on these issues. Actions need to correspond to well said words and what is written in black and white. Hence, this seminar.

OBJECTIVES OF THE SEMINAR

1. To help student-teachers to critically understand how their observations relate to the theories they have learnt and also to situate their learning in realistic frames.
2. To build an interdisciplinary framework to interpret and analyze observations and interactions.
3. To make the creative potential of the younger generation coupled with their zeal, enthusiasm, energy and versatility so that they can make a better tomorrow.
4. To provide opportunities to engage with children's lived realities in many ways: through biographies, stories, narrations of growing up in different cultures, observations about children by parents and teachers, children's diaries and the media.
5. To ponder upon Designing and Teaching as a course with a critical thinking focus.
